

Relax and enjoy

Providing an easy connection between your indoor and outdoor living areas and swimming pool is the objective of the team at Lady Enterprises

To get the maximum benefit from a swimming pool, it needs to integrate with both the interior spaces of the home and with outdoor living areas and gardens.

More than 40 years' experience in the building trade, and time spent studying horticulture and architecture, ensure Ian Miles can design, build and manage pool construction and landscaping projects for his clients. Ian Miles says his company, Lady Enterprises, aspires to create attractive, inviting outdoor living and swimming pool areas, and to ensure smooth connections between the spaces.

"Our one-stop service takes away the scary part of such a project. We listen to our clients and work with them to create an outdoor area that fulfils their vision. We also keep in mind that families grow and their needs change, so our projects also cater for that," Ian says.

Lady Enterprises manages projects from the beginning, dealing with council requirements and ensuring plans and works comply with building regulations.
